

Dye Penetration

A simple method in detecting leaks, Dye Penetration is a method in which a fluid (usually dye of some sort) is painted on the surfaces of a suspected leak. After some time, the fluid will penetrate the otherwise impermeable material in the place of the leak.